2. Double-bags for solid waste; e.g., box of 6:

Each bag will last for several weeks, and when filled, the inner bag tucks into the outer bag which has a double zip-lock closure. This isolates the solid waste and its pathogens from the environment until local authorities can collect and dispose of it properly.

Bags are only needed for solid waste, since liquid waste can be poured into the ground. Keeping liquid waste separate reduces the volume and the odors in the solid waste bucket. The box of 6 bags fits easily inside an empty bucket for storage until needed.
